

CITY OFFICIALS' TERM EXTENDED A YEAR BY BILL

All is joy over in the city hall this state of happiness having existed since the announcement of the report of the house county committee of the legislature Saturday recommending that Representative Brown's measure changing the time of county elections be passed with the amendment that all present officials of Honolulu are to hold office until January 1, 1918, an extension of one year over the present term.

The bill aimed to change the time of elections for the city and county of Honolulu to "off" years. To this end the bill fixed the time for the next county election for the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of 1917, instead of 1916, the time fixed under the existing statutes, and every two years thereafter.

Great American Show Makes Visit to Honolulu

There will be on view as from today for a short season only what are claimed to be the two smallest men in the world, also what is claimed to be the most beautifully tattooed lady. The lady, who is known as Madam Suringa, is tattooed in eight different colors. The magnets are known as Prince Lilliput and Major Atom. The former is 22 inches in height, 34 pounds in weight and 20 years old, while the latter is 19 1/2 inches high, 20 pounds in weight and 17 years old. They take part in a boxing contest as a special attraction for the spectators. Madam Suringa has over 500 different designs tattooed on her body and limbs. The designs are all beautifully worked and include flowers and fruit and photographs of various world's celebrities, including one of Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States. The exhibition is a decided novelty and should attract a large patronage. Its location will be opposite the Union Grill on King street.

HAWAII IS HONORED AT BIGGEST FAIR

Goldberg, Mr. Mark Green and Mrs. C. H. Raven.

Holding an informal reception of his own, Mr. Charles H. Bishop, founder of the house of Bishop & Co., received the congratulations of his friends on being able to honor the occasion with his presence.

The guests and speakers of the afternoon were draped with royal yellow silks leis. The ceremonies began when President Charles Cadwell Moore, Hon. Arthur Ariett, chairman of the California State Commission, representing Governor Hiram W. Johnson, Mayor James Rolph, Jr., Lieut.-cmdr. C. H. Woodward, U. S. N., naval aide to President Moore; Commissioner Bertram G. Ribenburgh, chairman of the occasion; Commissioner H. P. Wood, Hon. E. Faxon Bishop and U. S. Commissioner William Bailey Lamar, mounted the platform erected in front of the handsome pavilion.

After a musical number by the Hawaiian Glee Club, President Moore introduced by Commissioner Ribenburgh, welcomed Hawaii to the official family of the exposition, and on behalf of the directors presented Commissioner Ribenburgh with a bronze plaque in token of appreciation.

Chairman Ribenburgh, in a brief address, welcomed the people of Hawaii's home and thanked the kampanas for their patriotic interest in the dedication of their building.

Hon. E. Faxon Bishop of Honolulu, representing the Hawaiian commissioners, spoke of the part Hawaii had taken in the affairs of the Exposition and the part she has played in the history of the United States. After another musical number by the Glee Club, Hon. William Bailey Lamar, United States commissioner, on behalf of the federal government, accepted the Hawaiian building. Hon. Arthur Ariett, representing Governor Johnson, who was unable to be present, spoke briefly of the friendship existing between California and her neighboring territory across the sea. Mayor James Rolph, Jr., pleased the crowds by a happy reference to Hawaii as a honeymoon resort, mentioning the fact that his own honeymoon was spent in those sunny isles.

The impressive ceremonies were brought to a close by the glee club singing Aloha Oe, Hawaii Pono! and the American national anthem. Then with three rousing cheers the crowd of spectators dispersed to stroll through the building and inspect the wonderful aquarium, which has already gained a widespread reputation.

The program follows:

The Star Spangled Banner. Speaks for Hawaii.

For Hawaii, E. Faxon Bishop made the following speech:

"Our modest effort to join the pageant of nations and states in representation at this exposition, commemorating the greatest of engineering undertakings, now happily accomplished, is perhaps in appropriate keeping with the fact that the Territory of Hawaii is the smallest unit as well as the most remote of our great federation of states and territories.

"While widely detached, it is, nevertheless, a territory in the same constitutional sense that California, Arizona and Washington were territories prior to their being raised to the dignity of statehood, and we hope to impress this fact upon the multitudes that are already surging through the avenues and palaces of this superb exposition.

"While beyond question the glorious spectacle which you are here presenting must primarily of itself be awe-inspiring and a wonder of admiration and praise, it must also reflect national greatness as well as awaken an expression of immense admiration of California and Californian ability and genius. Therefore do we anticipate sharing in the national honors which you gentlemen who have built up this colossal enterprise have conferred upon our common country, to the wonder of the world.

"A Midoccean Paradise."

"We of Hawaii furthermore hope that as the hundreds of thousands of our people look out from this wonderful land upon the waters of the great Pacific, our modest house here will bring home to the American heart, that even though the tide ebbs and flows at their feet, there is yet, far beyond this apparent Occidental boundary, a paradise island, in midocean, from whose hills and ramparts floats, as proudly as from the most imposing pedestal of this exposition, our beloved Stars and Stripes, marking our outer permanent line of defense and a signal to the incoming voyager that American institutions of civilization, industry and progress are here already established, even though the Golden Gate of California is still 2000 miles away."

SEEK TWO OTHERS NEW COMMANDER OF 4TH CAVALRY REACHES HAWAII AS PARTNERS OF HALL AND BOGGS

Smiddy Says Couple Under Arrest Admitted Having Opium in Their Possession

J. A. Hall, an arrival in Honolulu from the Manchuria, and P. H. Boggs, a resident, have been arrested by the federal authorities on the charge of importing and concealing opium, and are now out under $2500 bonds each, pending the hearing before Commissioner Curry Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The arrests were made by Marshal Smiddy who states that Hall got away with the opium through the warning given by Boggs when he was arrested at the Melba apartments Friday night.

The discovery of the opium was so sudden and so unexpected that Marshal Smiddy had to cope with the smugglers single handed and had no time to call the police, according to his version of the affair told today. When Hall arrived in Honolulu Friday he took a room in the Melba apartments, 1708 Nuuanu avenue, where Marshal Smiddy stays, and passed himself off as a concrete specialist with a position at Pearl Harbor on the drydock. However, about 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, as Smiddy and Hall were conversing on the porch, a taxi drove up and three men got out. One was Boggs, the other two were strangers.

The trio went to Hall's room on his invitation, whereupon Smiddy became suspicious, as Boggs had been under suspicion before. When they came out Hall was carrying a gastone bag. Smiddy resolved to investigate.

He called to Boggs, saying he would like to have a look into the gastone carried by Hall. Boggs answered him:

"Keep out, it's the dope, but every dollar I have in the world is in it, and I will be broke if it goes."

Then the marshal made a dive for the bag, but was caught by Boggs who yelled so all the neighborhood could hear:

"Beat it, fellows."

The marshal says he overpowered Boggs and relieved him of a powerful Belgian automatic revolver, but by that time the other three men were whirling down Nuuanu street in the taxi which had not been dismised, with the opium still in their possession.

Marshal Smiddy, after taking Boggs to prison, found Joaquin Motts, who had driven the taxi, and learned that the three culprits left the taxi while going at a low speed along School street between the gym and Hough-talling road.

Saturday morning the marshal found the empty gastone bag at Boggs' house. No trace of the whereabouts of the opium was to be seen. He arrested Hall in the Fashion saloon Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The
